| Understanding Your Credit Score | | |
|---|---|---|
| What you should know about credit scores | Your credit score is a number that reflects the information in your credit report.Your credit report is a record of your credit history. It includes information about whether you pay your bills on time and how much you owe to creditors.Your credit score can change, depending on how your credit history changes. | |
| How we use your credit score | Your credit score can affect whether you can get a loan and how much you will have to pay for that loan. | |
| The range of scores | Equifax scores range from a low of 300 to a high of 850. TransUnion scores range from a low of 300 to a high of 850.Generally, the higher your score, the more likely you are to be offered better credit terms. | |
| How your score compares to the scores of other consumers | Your Equifax credit score ranks higher than 62 percent of U.S. Consumers. Your TransUnion credit score ranks higher than 52 percent of U.S. Consumers. | |
| Key factors that adversely affected your credit score | Equifax• Too many accounts with balances• Too many inquiries last 12 months• Ratio of balance to limit on bank revolving or other rev accts too high• Time since most recent account opening is too short | TransUnion• Proportion of loan balances to loan amounts is too high• Length of time revolving accounts have been established• Lack of recent revolving account information• Time since most recent account opening is too short |

| Checking Your Credit Report | |

NOTICE TO THE HOME LOAN APPLICANT

In connection with your application for a home loan, the Lender must disclose to you the score that a consumer reporting agency distributed to users and the Lender used in connection with your home loan, and the key factors affecting your credit scores.

The credit score is a computer generated summary calculated at the time of the request and based on information a consumer reporting agency or Lender has on file. The scores are based on data about your credit history and payment patterns. Credit scores are important because they are used to assist the Lender in determining whether you will obtain a loan. They may also be used to determine what interest rate you may be offered on the mortgage. Credit scores can change over time, depending on your conduct, how your credit history and payment patterns change, and how credit scoring technologies change.

Because the score is based on information in your credit history, it is very important that you review the credit-related information that is being furnished to make sure it is accurate. Credit records may vary from one company to another.

If you have questions about your credit score or the credit information that is furnished to you, contact the consumer reporting agency at the address and telephone number provided with this notice, or contact the Lender, if the Lender developed or generated the credit score. The consumer reporting agency plays no part in the decisions to take any action on the loan application and is unable to provide you with specific reasons for the decision on a loan application.

If you have questions concerning the terms of the loan, contact the lender.
